LADIES' DRESSING SACQUE.

This Is One of the Most Comfortable and Becoming Styles.

Crepe de Chine is without a doubt the season's favored fabric, and may be used for street, house, or evening wear. Some of the new dressing sacques are also developed in this soft, clinging material, the one here illustrated being of shell pink crepe de Chine, with yoke and trimming of Cluny lace.

crepe de Chine, with yoke and trimming of Cluny lace.

The lace yoke is shaped in a broad inverted V, and closes in the center front.

The crepe de Chine is gathered and adjusted at the lower edge of the yoke, the fullness being confined to the center. A smooth, well-filting effect is thus obtained over the shoulders and but, also under the arms, where the garment is fashionably shaped to ou...na the figure.

The dip back and front gives a longwaisted effect that is often lacking in sacques which are the same length all around.

Ambassadors Present at St. Matthew's Church.

McKinley Received by Baron Fava -Mass Celebrated by the Reverend Father

Washington, Aug. 19 .- Amid scenes of impressive solemnlty, and in the presence of the President of the United States, members of the Cabinet, officers of the army and navy, the Ambassadors and Ministers of foreign countries, and a great concourse of generally as "traitors at home and cowards people from civil life, the memorial services abroad," has written a letter to General held at St. Matthew's Catholic Church at 11 o'clock to-day.

The announcement of the services was made by the Italian Ambassador, Baron Fava, and, with the co-operation of the Her Sweetheart and Brother Ar. State Department, the event was given a distinctly official character.

The members of the Diplomatic Corps were in full dress, and the bright uniforms of the British, German, French and Austrian military and naval attaches. Generals and Admirals gave a touch of brilliant coloring and solemn pageantry. Church Decorated

The church had been decorated elaborately for the occasion. Around the sanctuary and on all sides rose a mass or paims end forage plants, while the beautiful white martie attar stood out from a forest of tall and graceful paims. Immediately in front of the chancel rall stood the catafalque—a counterpart of that in which the dead monarch was recently laid to rest at Rome. Over it was thrown a heavy black pall, edged with white, and on top was a great garland of laurel and galax leaves, tied with flowing ribbons of red, white and green, the colors of Italy. At the head and foot of the casket tall candelabra burned and the morning sun coming through the chancel window fell athwart this somber memorfal. A superb wreath of purple asmarbie artar stood out from a ferest of tall

Baron Fava, in the full uniform of his high diplomatic rank and wearing the decoration conferred on him by King Humbert shortly before his death, stood at the main entrance of the church and received the distinguished arrivals. He was assisted by Marquis Romano and the military attache of the embassy. Among the first of the arrivals was the Chinese Minister, Mr. Wu Ting Fang, in bright Oriental silks and searlet turban, accompanied by several of the members of his staff. The Spanish Minister, the Duke d'Aroos, in full diplomatic the members of his staff. The Spanish Min-ister, the Duke d'Arcos, in full diplomatic uniform of black and gold, followed soon after, and was given a seat with the Chi-nese representative. Back of them sat the Japanese Minister, Mr. Takahiro, his hand-some uniform set off by a vivid green sish across his breast and a sweeping white plume in his chaptan.

Germany was represented by Baron Speck von Sturenburg, the German Charge d'Affaires, accompanied by the German military and naval attaches in uniform; France by M. Thibet, acting Charge d'Affaires, and M. Boeufve; Great Britain by Mr. Lowther, and Captain Bradley of the British Navy; Russia by M.Routhkowsky, while the other countries of Europe, South and Central America were represented by several Ministers and secretaries.

Across the aisle from the Diplomatic Corps the pews were reserved for distinguished American officers and civil officials, and among those present were Admirals

Just at 11 o'clock President McKinley and he members of his Cabinet arrived at the When young Scharn summoned the police the officers found the dead girl lying on the church Baron Fava stepped forward and received the President, and escorted him to a seat immediately in front of the cat-afalque, walking down the middle alsh, With the President were Secretary Hitch-cock, Postmaster General Emory Smith, Acting Secretary of State Ades and the hammer, which young Scharn identified as having been in a toolchest which was kept in President's secretary, Mr. Cortelyou. As the presidential party took their seats the strains of the organ floated through the edifice and the black-and-white-robed aco-lytes led the procession of priests to the the kitchen. Beside it the police found a black mask, a hat which the dead girl had worn during the afternoon and evening, and some hairping and combs, evidently torn

It had been expected that Cardinal Gib-It had been expected that Cardinal Gib-bens would officiate, but his absence in the South prevented him from being present. The celebrant of the mass was the Rever-end Father Bart, assisted by Father Lee as deacon and Father Kervick as subdeacon. Father Chantell of Georgetown University rather Chantell of Georgetown University was also in the sanctuary.

The services consisted of high mass, the usual sermon being omitted. At the close of the mass the priests put aside their white vestments for those of black, and, descending from the sanctuary, moved about the casket, sprinkling it with holy water, praying for the renuse of the soul of the dead casket, sprinkling it with holy water, praying for the repose of the soul of the dead
King, chanting the "requiescat in pace."

At the close of the service the presidential party withdrew, followed by the diplomatic and military officials. Many of the people remained in the church to view the catafalque and flowers, to carry away a leaf or bud as a memento of the ceremony. Robbery Was the Motive.

When Mrs. Lippold arrived from Stonington to-day, she admitted that the relations between her second husband and her daughter had been greatly strained, and said that it was partly on that account that she had rented for her son and daughter the apartment in the Second avenue house. She said her son and daughter supported themselves and that they received no aid or assistance from her home.

Catherine Scharn was employed by the Eagle Pencil Company, at Avenue B and Fourteenth street, in the packing department. She was employed on piece work, and could work or not, as she pleased. She did not work on Saturday, having complained in the morning of feeling ill, but went to the factory and collected her wages which were due.

ROOSEVELT HAS TO FOR KING HUMBERT. EXPLAIN TO PALMER.

President, Cabinet Members, and Leader of Gold Democrats Rebuked Him for His Attack on Democracy.

CEREMONY VERY IMPRESSIVE. SAYS HE WAS MISQUOTED.

"Didn't Say or Mean That Gold Democrats Are Traitors at Home and Cowards Abroad," Just Bryan Democrats.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. New York, Aug. 19.-Governor Roosevelt being called to account by General John M. Palmer for that part of his St. Paul speech in which he denounced Democrats of the late King Humbert I of Italy were Palmer, "explaining" what he really meant

> This is a peculiarity of Rooseveltian campaigning. Governor Roosevelt is called upon to speak one day and the next to "explain"; or, as Chairman Hanna would put it, "Roosevelt is continually getting into hot water because he cannot restrain himself." In his St. Paul speech, Mr. Roosevelt, ignoring the fact that Democrats of the army and navy-men like Dewey, Hobson, Schley, Wheeler and Lawton-had carried off the horers in the war with Spain, characterized his Democratic countrymen as "traitors at home and cowards abroad."

> This phrase appears in every stenographic report of Governor Roosevelt's speech made at St. Paul, and the Governor's passionate denunciation of well-known heroes has excited much indignation throughout the country. Even General Palmer has moved to rebuke his young friend. Says He Was Misquoted. Now, Governor Roosevelt, seeking to ex-tricate himself from the dilemma, has resorted to the expedient of quoting from his "prepared" speech. In a letter to General Paimer, made public to-day, he ex-plains that he was misquoted, and that what he really said was this: "They stand for lawlessness and disorder at home and cowardly shrinking from duty There is not much difference in the phraseology of the speech as "prepared" and of the actual speech as "delivered. but Governor Roosevelt gives himself the benefit of the doubt. He tells General Palmer in effect that Gold Democrats are not "traitors at home and cowards abroad." Only Kansas City platform Democrats come under that head-

"You have evidently seen a report which was not merely garbled, but falsified. I stand by this speech absolutely, and have nothing to explain in connection with it; but I do wish to point out where its meaning was deliberately inverted:

"In my speech I began by saying:

"'We appeal not only to Republicans, but to all good citizens, who are Americans in fact as well as in name, to help us in re-electing President McKinley."

"I ended by saying: Report Was Falsified.

"I ended by saying:
"Study the Kansas City platform and you cannot help realizing that their policy (the policy of its makers and sponsors) is a policy of infamy; that their triumph would mean misery so widespread that mean misery so widespread that it is almost unthinkable and a disgrace so lasting that more than a generation would have to pass before it could be wiped out. They stand for lawlessness and disorder, for dishonesty and dishonor, for license and disaster at home and cowardly shrinking from duty abroad.
